

Drug Recall for Ukoniq Tablets

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced that TG Therapeutics has withdrawn Ukoniq tablets from the market due to safety concerns. This decision was made because there was an increased risk of death seen in clinical trials with this drug, and so the FDA determined the risks of treatment with Ukoniq outweigh its benefits. This means that Ukoniq is no longer available effective June 1, 2022. It will no longer be covered, since it is now removed from our formulary.

Please carefully review the impacted drug, and talk to your doctor about it right away.

What this means to you:

- If you take Ukoniq, talk to your doctor or healthcare provider about switching to another medicine or obtaining the same medicine that is not impacted.
- To determine if your medication is affected, you should look at the drug name and company name on the label of your prescription. If the information is not on the container, you should contact the pharmacy that dispensed the medication.
- The Food and Drug Administration recommends disposing of the unused medicine through a drug take back program. Some pharmacies offer on-site drop-off boxes, mailback programs and other ways to safely dispose your unused medicine.
- You can also throw away any unused medicine using the Federal Drug Disposal Guidelines:
 1. Mix the medicine with an unappealing substance such as dirt, cat litter, or used coffee grounds; do not crush them.
 2. Place the mixture in a container such as a sealed plastic bag.
 3. Throw away the container in your home trash.
 4. Delete all personal information on the prescription labels of empty medicine bottles or packaging, then throw away or recycle them.
- Please refer to the Food and Drug Administration website for the most current updates to this drug recall at: <https://www.fda.gov/drugs/drug-safety-and-availability/fda-approval-lymphoma-medicine-ukoniq-umbralisib-withdrawn-due-safety-concerns>
